While I wish that enforcement was the solution to this problem, a free pump out station is probably the most realistic, and likely to be used, option.	1217
2016-02-28 22:06:46	Jack Harari	DIVING		BROWARD		Not Sure	Likely	Likely	There are already lots of free pump out stations in my area and when I have to pay, it is usually only a few dollars which is not very much. I could dump offshore if I wanted to but I am supportive of keeping sewage out of the water so I go out of my way to use pump out stations (even if I have to pay). I doubt it is the few dollars that is preventing pump outs but rather laziness to seek out the pump out stations. However, it is a good idea and it will save me a few dollars here and there.		1179

2/17/16 18:00				MIAMI-DADE		Likely	Not Sure	Definitely So		for the service to be effective there would have to be enough pump out stations to make it convenient to boaters, which could be very costly due to the boating activity here in south florida. Difficult to overcome the convenience of dumping wherever you currently are unfortunately.	263
